One of Lole Fuller's many representatives—she has about two a week—has just reached this city. He says that her new mirror dance has made a great sensation, but that all poor Lole's money is going to straighten out the legal difficulties in which Robert Grau's contracts landed her. She expects to be free in April and then to make a little money for herself. She does not talk about returning to America with another does of alleged "celebriles." Lole's mania at present is the sending of cable messages. She answers all her letters by cable at considerable expense.
